CHANGES AT THE THEATRES.

Stuart Robson in "The Henrietta" at Prootor's Theatre.

Galety Girls at the Broadway-"Gullty Without Crime" at the People's.

Stuart Robson began an engagement at rector's Twenty-third Street Theatre last night, when he presented Bronson Howard's popular comedy known as "The Henrietta." Mr. Robson was very warmly received, and his impersonation of Bertie Van Alstyne was frequently applauded. Mr. Robson's work was as amusing and artistic as ever. Frank Mordaunt played W. H. Crane's old part very satifactorily. Miss May Waldron was extremely entertaining as Mrs. Opdyke, and the same may be said of George Woodward as the Rev. Dr. Murray Hilton. PROPER'S THEATRE.

An adaptation of Miss Braddon's novel, 'Aurora Floyd," entitled "Guilty Without Crime, " was presented at the People's Theatre last night, evidently to the satisfaction of the audience, which was a large one. The story is, of course, a sensational one, and no efforts were made in the p sy to suppress any of the sensationalsm. In the cast were Miss Ramie Austen as Stella, Dore Davidson as Tom Rawon, Ernest Foster, T. B. Thornton, Frank Kemble, Charles M. Hayne, H. B. Harkins, W. S. Hockstra, George Mason and Miss Perselle.

and Miss Perselle.

BROADWAY THEATRE.

The London Gaiety Company began a farewell engagement at the Broadway Theatre last night, presenting "Faunt Up to Date," in which they have before appeared in this city. Miss Elotrence St. John same agreeably, and Charles Danby availed himself of every opportunity for fun. The best actress in the organization is undoubtedly Miss Maria Jones, whose Martina was a very clever sketch. E. J. Loonen was the Mechistopheles, and same a song called "Mullingar," of which the audience evidently approved.

Hallem opens-House. HABLEM OFRBA-ROUSE.

Miss Rose Coghlan graced Mr. Hammerstein's Harlem Opera-House last night, whon she appeared in "Forget-Me-Not,"
one of the best plays in her repertoire, as far as Miss Coghlan herself is concerned.
Her impersonation of the advantures
stephanic de Mohrivart is an admirable piece of work. Miss Coghlan thoroughly appreciates the subtlety of the role. She was recalled several times last night. John T. Sullivan as Sir Horace Welby and Miss Helen Bancroft as Alice Verney were acceptable.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE. GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.

The Grand Opera-House had a capital entertainment last night in the Boston Howard Athensum Star Specialty Company, an organization that is no stranger to the that tregoers of this city. The wonderful dancing of little Ida Heath was vigorously applauded by the large audience. George Thatcher, the Irwin sisters, the Russell brothers and Wood and Sheppard did very good work. Wilton and Mora contributed acrobatic feats, and there were a couple of heroic Arabs in feats of strength. NIBLO'S GARDEN.

NIBLO'S GARDEN.

Alexander Salvini, as a star, was the attraction at Niblo's Garden last night. He appeared in the leading role of 'A Child of Napies," a play which he presented when he was travelling with his illustrious father, on the nights when the elder Salvini did not appear. Mr. Salvini's work was loudly applauded by the Niblo andience. Is was strong and dramatic. Young Salvini never errs by lack of strength. Miss May Brookyn, Elmer Delamater and Lucius Henderson were in the cast. POURTEENTH STREET THEATRE.

Charles H. Hoyt's farce comedy, "A Brass Monkey," was presented at the Fourteenth Street Theatre with all the symmatic fun that the admirers of Hoyt invariably expect and equally invariably get. There was a large audience, and the laughter was frequent and uproarious. George Marion, formerly a member of Dockstader's company, appeared as Jonah, the part with which Charlie Reed was for so long identified.

TONY PARTOR'S. There was an excellent programme at Tony Pastor's Theatre last night. The Kernells were at its head, and they put the audience in a thoroughly good humor. Miss Ella Wesner, the male impersonator: Thomas O'Brien, Charles and Lotta, Hisms and Burns, Weber and Fields, Miss Helen Dagmar, who sang acceptably; Nash, Newcomb and Mohamed, the Roser's, and the Fremouss were other features of the entertainment.

THIRD AVENUE.

THIRD AVENUE. "Passion's Slave," a sensational play that has travelled sround for a long time, was the attraction at H. R. Jacobs' Third Avenue Theatre last night. It was well presented, and the company was a good one, including C. Barringer as Manuel de Foe, J. W. Cope as Ferdinand Shepley, Edward Thayer as Gen. Briscoe, Miss Abbie Flerce as Manuel Briscoe, and Miss Josie Sisson, who sang very agreeably.

Miss Hanks was analytical in her essay, in which she asserted that it was moral death for one will to be absorbed by another. She also declated that most men have enough Thurman Noyes in them to make them condemn the play."

WINDSOR THEATRE. Windson THEATRE.

Monros and Rice, the eccentric comedians, appeared at the Windsor Theatre last night in "My Aust Bridges," which was recently seem at the Fourteenth Street Theatre. The audience laughed heartily at the play from start to finish. Monroe as Bridget McVeagh was very funny. Miss Lena Merville, Miss Kate Davis and Mr. Rice were also humorous. The play was well staged.

RARNY RENNEDYS.

The little theatre on Eighth street, near Fourth avenue, formerly known as Poole's and the Comedy, was opened last night as Harry Kannedy's Theatre, and a very large audience assembled to welcome the offening. A very good varjety programme was offered, and the entertainment was evidently enjoyed. Among those who appeared were Miss Maggie Cline, Miss Jennie Yeamans, the two Macs, the Garnellas and Mr. Kennedy.

Carmencita was again the principal attraction at Kester & Bial's Concert Hall last night. She danced as briskly and as simuously as ever. Other features of the rather formidable programme were Miss Laura Lee, Ali Zada, Miss Faunie Beane, Signor and Niguora Paalias, Realy and Costello, and Prof. Burke. A HORSE-RACE GAME and double-barrelled shotgun, with cartridges, for Eafety bicycle or cash. A. U. K., 161 East 91st st.

PALACE MUSEUM. The Palace Specialty Company gave hourly entertainments on the stage of the Palace Museum, in East Fourteenth street, yesterday. The organization included Mackay and Walker, Tyson and Vaughu, the Melsons, J. B. Mack. Susie Sullivan, Harry Leonard, Andy Ammon, Ed Clarence, iom Carv and Will Hickey. In the curio halls was the usual wealth of attractions.
